

Berlin in English since 2002

EXBERLINER / Jobs

Part-time Advertising Sales

Applications should be sent to office@exberliner.com by May 17.

Exberliner (published by Iomauna Media GbmH) is looking for a part-time (20 hours/week) sales associate in our office near Rosa-Luxemburg-Platz, Berlin-Mitte. We will only be accepting applications from ambitious, outgoing people with excellent German language skills. If everything goes well, this could grow into a full-time position. Please send your application to office@exberliner.com

The job

- acquiring new local advertisers, retail, gastronomy, services, language schools and tourism business
- developing new business for dedicated print and online formats
- maintaining existing client relationships
- working in a small team to meet global and individual targets

The conditions

- 20 hours per week (with some flexibility) in our office in Berlin-Mitte
- base salary + lucrative commission on total sales + sales generated (without limit)

The ideal candidate

- has experience in active sales!
- is a good fit for our diverse, multi-national team
- identifies with the Exberliner brand
- is a great communicator in English and German (spoken and written)
- is a reliable, well-organised worker
- is a fast, flexible learner
- is ready to start ASAP

The company

Exberliner was founded by three journalists in 2002. It's Germany's largest English-language magazine. The Berlin-based independent monthly has grown into a family of print and digital publications including Exberliner.com, Exberliner Newsletters, Exberliner City Guides and our social media channels. The Exberliner brand stands for independent journalism and the free-thinking spirit of the city, with deep connections within the diverse international and cultural scenes of the German capital.